

Bill Inverso Wood Sculpture & Furniture

Being attracted to movement in all different medians such as ballet, a falling leaf, music, how it ebbs and flows, the way trees move when the wind blows, movement in rock formations and the clouds. I like to take wood and move it in different directions along with geometric patterns to create movement in my sculptures. Working closely with the grain patterns and textures, I try to bring out its natural beauty by allowing it to move in different directions and creating something that wasn't there before. Being a high end furniture maker in the Roaring Fork Valley for many years, I now get to bring my creative whims to life. I am intertwined with my work and in a place of total peace while I create. Each piece I make I'm making for someone I haven't met, but I know there's that one person who will find enjoyment and inspiration in something I created, so actually we are creating together and that is my true inspiration.
